Lecture: “Windmills and Wooden Shoes: Dutch Genealogy”

Megan Heyl, M.Ed.

Learn where to locate “Holland” when researching your Dutch ancestors. Discover hidden resources, and find a few windmills and wooden shoes along the way. Let’s tiptoe through the tulips together!

Megan is a retired teacher who provides professional genealogical research and educational services through her business “Hunting Down History”. She is a member of many local, national and international genealogical societies and organizations and is currently the Director of the British Institute for the International Society for British Genealogy and Family History.

Class: “Colorizing Black and White Digital Photographs”

3:15 pm

Mike Christiaens and Mike Gerding, members of GSWC

Bring your old black and white family photos closer to real life using photo colorization. Learn how to use two popular applications and see black and white photos transformed in a live demonstration.

Contacts: Marcia McCrary, info@washtenawgenealogy.org or Nancy Howard, president@washtenawgenealogy.org
