“Organize Like an Archivist: Taming Genealogy Records and Research ”

Nancy Loe

Learn effective step-by-step strategies to organize and link genealogy research and records, both paper and digital, without using complicated systems.

Our Speaker: Nancy E. Loe is a professional librarian, archivist, and genealogist, who writes and lectures on US and European genealogy research and records.. Nancy also provides expert guidance on information management and research skills.

“Michigan: An Upper Midwest Researcher’s Dream”

Paula Stuart-Warren

Michigan is a state of many people: Native Americans, fur traders, French explorers, British military, and then settlers from all over the world including many from Canada and the Northeast U.S. The records and indexes are amazing as are the libraries, historical societies, archives, universities that are filled with resources. Online indexes and record images add to the dream. Learn about the people, resources, businesses, farms, military, and vital records.

Our Instructor: Paula Stuart-Warren has been a Board-certified genealogist since 1988. Paula is a national speaker and works full time in genealogical and historical research, lecturing, consulting, and writing.
